PRIZE WINNERS CLEAN-UP DAY ANNOUNCED.

The success of the Woman's Club in cleaning-up the town of Murray was very apparent last Monday when the committees appointed to view the labor and award the prizes had completed their work. Every section of the city was visited and every section likewise showed splendid evidence of the interest aroused in behalf of civic improvement. It was a difficult task for the committees to make the awards as so many premises were beautifully cleaned and to judge which was entitled to the awards was not an easy matter. The premiums were awarded as follows:

Largest pile of rubbish. 1st Ed Parker; 2nd Walter Aycock.

Largest pile of ashes. 1st Mrs. Z. T. Conner; 2nd Mesdames Graves Sled and Henry Thornton.

Largest pile of tin cans. 1st Herman Brown; 2nd Pat McRea; 3rd Opal Brown.

The largest pile of bottles. 1st Ed Parker and Robbie Smith; 2nd Ben Stokes and Noah Pool.

Cleanest premises. 1st Mrs. John Hart; 2nd Mrs. John Farmer.

Cleanest front yard. Mrs. Stum; 2nd Mrs. Bradley.

Honorable mention. Uncle Henry Pool, colored.

Girl cleaning largest space on school ground. 1st Margaret Stum; 2nd Mary Leona Bishop and Virginia Wear.

Largest pile of brick bats. 1st Rudy Tyree; 2nd Gilbert Graves.

Boy cleaning largest space on school ground. 1st Alton Barnett; 2nd Leo Fulton.

For cleanest poultry yard. 1st Mrs. Clarence Phillips; 2nd Mrs. Jesse Sexton.

Cleanest back yard. 1st Mrs. Bob Simpson; 2nd Mrs. Asher Graham.

Largest pile of pop bottles. 1st Ed Parker; 2nd No contestant.

Cleanest alley. Mesdames Coleman and Scott; 2nd A. B. Beale.

Largest pile of paper. 1st Ed Parker; 2nd Leo Fulton.

Place showing greatest improvement. 1st Mrs. Caroline Mayes; 2nd Mrs. Rella Hale.

Largest space on school ground. two girls. Misses Doris Jennings and Almada Wear.

Cleanest side walk. Mrs. Ellie Cochran.

Largest pile of queensware. Ed Parker and Robbie Smith.

In addition to awarding the premiums the committee drafted a report and which is as follows: The best thing found by the committee on inspection was the work done by the women and children. We wish every citizen could give this city the close inspection we have and see how cleanly and sanitary we found the residence portion.

The worst thing found was the total lack of cleaning up by the MEN in the business section. The alleys and vacant lots of said section presenting a most unsanitary and unsightly appearance. Not only these, but a number of the most public approaches to the square being found in an absolutely filthy condition. Especially is this true of that street between Depot St. and the Overby corner, a street used by hundreds of strangers coming into our town.

We would recommend that the City Council see that the owners of vacant lots have them thoroughly cleaned and that the streets, alleys and public square be kept clean at all times.

We would further recommend that a garbage wagon be employed to thoroughly canvass the town at a stated time once a week, preferably Saturday, to take up all piles of rubbish which are placed by the citizens in a convenient place for removal.

We want to thank the papers for their generous advertising, the merchants and all others for the prizes which were a material aid, the Council and Commercial Club for their hearty co-operation and the women and children who made our first cleaning up day such a glorious success.

FISCAL COURT TERM FINISHED.

The regular April term of the Calloway County Fiscal Court was adjourned last Saturday to convene again July first. Aside from the routine work, allowing claims, dispensing with the monthly meetings, etc., the court completed the tax levy for the year 1911. The total tax, state, school and county, will be $1.15 upon the hundred, with $1 school poll and $1.50 poll for the general fund. The county levy was made as follows: 20 cents for road and bridges; 15 cents for general fund; 15 cents for school fund and 10 cents for purpose of creating sinking fund for building a court house.

As stated in the Ledger last week the appropriation that should have been set aside for gravel was converted to a court house sinking fund, as provided under recent act of the legislature. The fiscal court acted under the law in this matter but already the people of the county are complaining bitterly because of the fact that the necessary fund for the extension of the gravel roads of the county must be converted to another source and lay idle for many years. The Ledger believes the court erred in the matter and wishes that it had seen fit to ignore the law, passed in violation of the expressed wishes of the people, and instead have let the matter been thrashed out before the court of appeals. The 20 cents levied for roads and bridges for the maintenance of the bridges and roads and under present conditions it will not be possible to build any gravel roads for several years to come.

TOM GASKINS GOES TO PEN FOR FORCING GIRL TO MARRY.

Dresden, Tenn., April 10. Tom Gaskins, aged 32 years, who, according to allegations made by Miss Vizzie McDaniel, aged 18, forced her to accompany him from his home, a short distance from this place, to Paris, Tenn., to marry him, was sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary Saturday by a jury, which found him guilty of the charges preferred against him by the young woman, and on which the grand jury some time ago indicted him. Miss McDaniel accused Gaskins of assault and battery, of forcing her to marry him and of having carnal knowledge of her, and brought suit against him on these allegations for $5,000 damages.

Another Attempt to Raise Hell in Calloway County.

Endeavor has been made the past two weeks to again engender turmoil and strife and hate and ill feeling within this county, and that by a person or persons who have naught on earth to do with the courts of the state. Some of the dirtiest tricks ever resorted to by any man have been brought into play to accomplish a most heinous determination. The law has been violated, wilfully and flagrantly, not for the purpose of accomplishing anything that would be of benefit to the county, but for the purpose of re-opening the escape valves of hell and again pouring forth upon this county the bitterness and hate that was buried three years ago. The Ledger wants to denounce the attempt as the most distasteful conduct ever perpetrated in the county.

Calloway county is at peace with the world, a better feeling prevails here today than for many years; neighbor is at peace with neighbor; the tie that binds the town and the county is more firmly knotted than for years; real estate values have advanced scores of dollars; beautiful and peaceful homes dot the hill sides and grace the valleys of the county; church spires reaching toward the blue vaults of heaven seem to be many feet taller than ever before, and the little red school house finds a peaceful domicile in every section of the county; a splendid county fair has been organized and where every citizen contests with every other citizen his prowess as producer of those things which fill the graineries, the barns and the larders of the land; the sun kisses away the morning dew with sweeter manner and gentler grace, and the grass nods back its approval of the courtesy; the coo of the dove is mellow, yea even the lion and the lamb have lain down together and the handle of the hatchet long ago buried has rusted and rotted from its socket, and the sun shines brighter than ever on the old Kentucky homes of dear old Calloway. And he who would destroy this peace is a traitor to every home in the county; he would institute hell in the place of harmony; he would mount the assassin and send him forth with the commission to kill and destroy; he would sharpen the fangs of the serpent and refill his glands with venom; he would enlist the fire brand and direct him to burn and destroy.

Does Calloway want these things? Does the business interests of the county want these things? Does the lover of peace and harmony want a re-occurrence of the conditions of the past several years? Does anybody but a fool want these things to again visit the peaceful county of Calloway? Here is what has transpired within the past few days, and we want the sober, thinking, quiet-loving people of the county to think over the matter and place the blame for the endeavor to re-open these old sores where it properly belongs.

A subpoena was issued from the office of the circuit court clerk, Mr. Joe Lancaster, of Calloway county, dated March 27th, to the sheriff of Christian county, Ky., summoning one Arthur Cooper, a confessed night rider, to appear before the Calloway county grand jury at the regular April term, 1911. On April 8th another subpoena was issued from the same source for a number of residents of this county to appear before the present grand jury. The editor of the Ledger has been in communication with Hon. Jas. B. Allensworth who was appointed commonwealth's attorney pro tem; Hon. Denny P. Smith, commonwealth's attorney, and Mr. J. Clay Erwin, county attorney, regarding these subpoenas and each of them declared that they had no knowledge of the matter, and that when such subpoenas were issued that it was done without their advice or consent. The law provides that when a grand jury is not in session that no other person but the commonwealth's attorney has any right to issue such a subpoena. Even the county attorney is denied this privilege without the consent of the commonwealth's attorney. Mr. Joe Lancaster, circuit court clerk of the county, has been asked about the subpoenas, and has stated that he had no knowledge of the matter. This is a peculiar state of affairs and one that the people of this county will be slow to grasp. It was evidently the present conditions of the county, who desire to again arouse the old feeling of years past, and force the present grand jury to re-open a matter long ago adjusted and forgotten. If it was the purpose of the present grand jury to again take up this matter it was their duty to take it up without any outside interference, and any attempt to interfere with their duty is an abridgement to their rights and an outrage upon the public.

A representative of the Ledger asked Commonwealth's Attorney Smith this afternoon if he desired to say anything about the effort of some few individuals to have the present grand jury to return indictments for the old night rider offenses in Calloway county three years ago and he said: "Nothing at all except that, in my opinion, our people's greatest need right now is to be let alone in the enjoyment of peace, prosperity and good will one toward another."

While Mr. Smith would not discuss his position in regard to re-opening the night rider troubles by the grand jury, it is well known that with the cool nerve, which is characteristic of the man, he has taken a positive stand against it, and advised the grand jury that it should not be done unless there should occur a new outbreak, for the reason the troubles are now over, the people are at peace and to re-open the question would hurt and not help the commonwealth.

The Ledger is going to place the blame where it belongs and will have considerable more to say about this matter in the future. The public is entitled to know.

IN WATER SEVERAL MONTHS.

Benton, Ky., April 10. After having been in the water near four months, the body of Sam H. Morgan, of Fort Henry, Tenn., was recovered yesterday near Gilbertsville, Ky., by J. F. Jackson.

Mr. Morgan fell from a raft at the Illinois Central bridge at Gilbertsville, Ky., in the Tennessee river on December 30, 1910. His father, M. L. Morgan, of Fort Henry, was called over long distance phone and came and identified the body by a leather purse and two $5 bills which were uninjured.

After the inquest by the coroner, Dr. B. T. Hall, by the direction of his father, the body was buried on the bank, to remain until this fall or winter, when it will be taken up and carried to the family cemetery. The body was in such a stage of decomposition it could not be consistently carried now.

Mr. Morgan was 30 years old, and a leading citizen of Fort Henry, and leaves a wife and five small children.

TRIGG COUNTY VOTES DRY BY A LARGE MAJORITY.

Cadiz, Ky., April 11.—The prohibition election in Trigg county resulted in a "dry" vote of 1,790 and "wet" 772 votes. The election passed off quietly throughout the county, and the vote was unusually large.

Three years ago the county went dry by a 43 majority.

Gives Aid to Strikers.

Sometimes liver, kidneys and bowels seem to fly on a strike and refuse to work right. Then you need those pleasant little strike-breakers—Dr. King's New Life Pills—to give them natural and gently compel proper action. Excellent health soon follows. Try them. 25c at Dale & Stubblefield.

J. HAMP SWIFT PASSES AWAY.

J. Hamp Swift, one of the county's oldest and best known citizens, died Thursday at the home of his son, Joe Swift, in the northeast section of the county after a lingering illness of the infirmities of age and asthma. He had been a sufferer for many years of the disease. He was past 80 years of age and back in the seventies served this county as sheriff two terms of two years each. He was widely known and had many friends in the county. He is survived by several children and brothers and sisters. Rev. Mc. Pool was called to conduct the funeral services which were held Friday at 10 o'clock at Mt. Carmel church, after which the burial took place in that grave yard.

The C. W. B. M. and Sunday School institute in session at the Christian church here two days of this week was adjourned Wednesday night. It was a splendid meeting and attracted a number of notable church workers. Eld. Hawkins, of Cadiz, and the new pastor of the local Christian church was one of the prominent men present at the meeting. He will return to Murray about the first of May and enter upon the work of his new charge.

ANOTHER BIG DEAL IS MADE.

District Manager J. H. Keys returned to his home Thursday from a meeting of the board of managers of the tobacco association which was held in Clarksburg this week and reports that a deal was closed with the Italian buyers for 8,000 hogsheds of association tobacco at regular graded prices. The tobacco is all leaf and to be delivered as rapidly as prized and stored for inspection. This is the second big deal made, 5,000 hogsheds of lugs were recently sold to the Spanish contractors. The sales this week at Paducah were good and prices splendid. A number of Calloway hogsheds were in the sale.

ANNUAL LOG ROLLING W. O. W.

The annual log rolling of the Woodmen of the World-camps of Graves county will be held this year at Vulton Creek on Thursday, July 13. The Vulton Creek Camp 237 will have charge of the celebration but will be assisted by the various camps of the county. These occasions are always largely attended and this year it is expected that there will be a large crowd present. An excellent program will soon be announced. The committee in charge of the arrangements for the day are T. A. Murphey, W. C. Summerville and J. N. Clark of the Vulton Creek lodge.

Veterans Organize Camp.

The H. B. Lyon Camp Confederate Veterans, was re-organized here last Saturday with J. N. Williams, commander; W. O. Wear, adjutant, and Wm. Fisher treasurer. Quite a large membership was enrolled. Steps were taken looking toward attending the annual re-union which takes place this year at Little Rock, Ark., May 16-18. The date of the county re-union was fixed for the first Saturday at the fair grounds.

For the stomach and bowel disorders of babies, McGee's Baby Elixir is a remedy of genuine merit. It acts quickly, is pure, wholesome and pleasant to take. Price 25c and 50c per bottle. Sold by Dale & Stubblefield.

THIS FROM A TRAVELING MAN.

The most remarkable record to become a part of the vital statistics of Trimble county was made public last week by J. E. Ray, a traveling man, whose home is in Milton, Ky. Mr. Ray received a letter from a relative in Milton, stating that Mrs. Chas. Dolby, of that place, last week, gave birth to fifteen children. The babies were from three to four inches in length, perfectly formed, and though minute in size were well developed. None of the children lived. —Marion Leader.

IS HERE TO STAY

Control and Publicity for Public Service Corporations.

VERDICT OF PROMINENT MAN

Theodore N. Vall, President of Western Union and Telephone Companies, Recognizes Rights of the American Public.

Public regulation of public service corporations has come to stay. It ought to have come and it ought to stay. This is the unequivocal assertion of Theodore N. Vall, president of both the American Telephone and Telegraph company and the Western Union Telegraph company. It came in the form of his annual report to the seventy thousand stockholders of the two great corporations. Although Mr. Vall's advocacy of full publicity in connection with the affairs of such concerns was well understood, nobody in financial circles had anticipated so frank an avowal of full public rights in the shaping of their general conduct. It came consequently as a surprise, not only because of its novelty and avowal, but also on account of the unqualified acquiescence of a board of directors comprising such eminent and conservative financiers as Robert Wilson, of Kilders, Peabody & Co., and Henry L. Higginson of Boston, Henry P. Davison of J. P. Morgan & Co., Senator W. Murray Chase, George F. Bass, T. Jefferson Coolidge, Jr., Norman W. Harris, John L. Waterbury and others.

President Vall's declaration is heralded as the first recognition by those in high corporate authority of the justice of the demand that the public be regarded as virtual partners in all matters that pertain to the common welfare. He goes directly to the point.

"Public control or regulation of public service corporations," he says, "has come and come to stay. Control or regulation, to be effective, means publicity; it means semi-public discussion and consideration before action; it means everything which is the opposite of and inconsistent with effective competition. Competition—aggressive, effective competition—means, strife, industrial warfare; it means contention; it oftentimes means taking advantage of or cutting in any manner that the conscience of the contestants or the degree of the enforcement of the laws will permit.

"Aggressive competition means duplication of plant and investment. The ultimate object of such competition is the possession of the field wholly or partially; therefore it means either ultimate combination on such basis and with such prices as will cover past losses, or it means loss of return on investment, and even the loss of the investment itself. It results, all costs of aggressive, uncontrolled competition are eventually borne, directly or indirectly, by the public. Competition which is not aggressive, presupposes co-operation, understanding, agreement, which result in general uniformity or harmony of action, which, in fact, is not competition but is combination, unstable, but for the time effective. When thoroughly understood, it will be found that control will give more of the benefits and public advantages, which are expected to be obtained through such ownership, and will obtain them without the public burden of either the public office-holder or public debt or operating deficit.

"When through a wise and judicious state control and regulation all the advantages without any of the disadvantages of state ownership are secured, state ownership is doomed."

"If Mr. Vall is right," says Harper's Weekly, in a concise summing up, "then it seems pretty plain that we are entered upon a new era in both economics and politics. And it is high time we did it, for evolution is to supplant revolution as an efficient force in the development of civilization."

Fighting Man. It is man's nature to fight. It is his merit to fight for what he believes to be right. Courage and bravery are not achieved by himing a lawyer. A man who is not willing to fight to the death for the right or for his own is not as good or complete a man as one who is willing. But opinions about this are not so important as the fact that it is man's nature to fight, and that neither resolutions nor legislation nor provision to get over all kinds of trouble in any other way than fighting will avail. Ellwood Hendricks, in Atlantic.

More to the Purpose. "Are you in favor of a ten hour day?" "I don't care anything about the day," replied young Roundley, "but it would be a jolly good thing if we could have 24-hour nights."

Misguided Energy. "I am bound to make a noise in the world," said the determined youth. "But be careful how you go about it," replied Mr. Dange Street. "An amateur with a bass drum can spoil the finest symphony ever written."

Jovious Economist. "No," replied the jovious philosopher. "When prices are high, think how much more you save every time you decide to get along without something."

BALL RESIGNED HIS PORTFOLIO

Becomes Postmaster in His Home, Hardinsburg

THIRD DURING PRESENT TERM

Robt. Cook of the Auditor's Office Becomes Assistant Secretary of State—Has Seen Three Years of Service at Capital.

Frankfort.—W. Sherman Ball has resigned as assistant secretary of state to become effective April 1. Gov. Wilson was not notified that Mr. Ball intended resigning until he had resigned. This will be the third assistant secretary of state to be appointed during Gov. Wilson's term.

Mr. Ball resigns to accept the postmaster at Hardinsburg, Breckinridge county, a place to which he has been appointed by the president. Robert Cook, of Hopkinsville, employed in the auditor's office, was appointed assistant secretary of state to succeed Mr. Ball.

Mr. Cook is well known in Frankfort, where he has lived for three years. He is from Hopkinsville and came to Frankfort with the present administration just after Frank P. James went in as auditor. Mr. Cook will familiarize himself with the duties of the new office and then will begin work April 1.

One will be appointed to fill the place made vacant by the appointment of Robert Cook. He had charge of the corporation desk and, as most of the work in that department is over for this year, the auditor will divide up the work between the others.

Police Judge Named. J. W. Compton has been appointed police judge of Edmonson county. Got the Governor's Goat. Buck, a goat, residing opposite the governor's mansion, has been convicted of stealing all the newspapers delivered at the mansion. The offense is of long standing. Buck was found standing on the front porch of the mansion, leisurely chewing up the morning paper, and enjoying it as much as if it had been the finest quality of alfalfa or California oats.

Gov. Wilson has been missing his papers for some time, and has been in constant search for them. The papers and local newspapers because his papers were missing.

To Help Rural Schools. One of the traveling libraries used by the State Library commission in circulating interest in good reading will be sent to Louisville to be placed on exhibition at the meeting in the interest of rural school improvement to be held there shortly. Miss Julia Robinson, secretary of the commission, wants the men and women interested in rural schools to see what these traveling libraries are and encourage the rural schools to use them. Ten traveling libraries have been sent out by Miss Robinson and much good is expected to result from them.

Bouquets for Company. Col. R. K. Krieger, assistant adjutant general, says that Company A, recently mustered into the service in Louisville, is the best military company in the country, barring none. He says it is as fine a body of men as he ever saw in any military organization, and declares that Capt. Neville Bullitt has reason to be proud of the men he has gathered together. Col. Krieger was present when the company finally was mustered into service.

After Eleven Years. Recommendation that Percy be shown to T. B. Whitson, an escaped convict from North Carolina, has been made by Gov. Wilson to Gov. Kitchin. He has been looking to the pardon of Whitson as a fugitive from North Carolina. For 11 years Whitson lived in the mountains, made friends and had almost ceased to fear that he would be arrested and taken back to North Carolina. He had begun to feel at ease and confident that the pursuit had ceased. But they were still after him. One day Whitson went to Lexington on business and that was his undoing.

Elizabethtown.—The mass meeting of the Lincoln Way improvement committee to be held in this city April 8 promises to be an important epoch in the history of the old Louisville and Nashville pike.

Congressman H. Y. Thomas and Swager Sherry and others are expected to attend.

Mrs. Breathitt Better. The condition of Mrs. James Breathitt, wife of the attorney general of Kentucky, who underwent an operation at the Lexington Infirmary a few days ago, is greatly improved, and the attending physicians say that there is no longer any danger.

The Louisville & Nashville are now acquiring Highlands railroad, the newly acquired Highlands railroad, the connecting link between this city and Versailles, on April 20.

Two Imposing Statues. Two imposing statues of men who played a part in Kentucky's history are being modeled by famous sculptors, and it is expected that both will be erected in the capitol at Frankfort before the administration of Gov. Wilson comes to an end. One is the statue of William Goebel, which was provided for by an appropriation made by act of the general assembly. The other is the statue of Lincoln, which is to be the gift of J. B. Speed of Louisville. Both are well under way.

The statue of Lincoln, which promises to be the most notable one ever made, is being modeled by the sculptor, A. A. Weinman, who made the Lincoln statue now on the Lincoln farm in Lane county. It will be placed in the rotunda of the capitol, under the central dome. It will be imposing, as the figure of Lincoln will be about seven feet tall. The preliminary model has been tested in the place where the finished statue is to be placed, and the sculptor has designed his figure so that it will look well from any point of view. It is hoped that this statue can be in place by the latter part of November—before that—The contract calls for its delivery before that time.

Governor Asks Celebration. The following letter has been sent by Gov. Wilson to the American Bible Society:

"I have the honor to acknowledge your letter advising me that the year 1911 is the 300th anniversary of the publication of the authorized or King James version of the English Bible, and that this historical event is to be appropriately celebrated on both sides of the sea. You also advise me that April 23 has been suggested as a proper day for the churches to hold special services and the week following for other more general meetings.

"I shall take great pleasure in submitting the matter to the public. The people of Kentucky are second to none in their devotion to the English Bible and its teachings, and I am sure that they will take an earnest, heartfelt interest in the celebration of this 300th anniversary. Yours truly,

"ATTEST: E. WILSON, Governor of Kentucky."

Pardons Issue. Gov. Wilson pardoned William Flavellyn, of Guthrie, sent to the penitentiary for ten years for breaking into a railroad car. The pardon was granted on the recommendation of Attorney W. G. Deering, of the Louisville & Nashville railroad.

G. T. Wiseman, of Wolfe county, was pardoned, having been convicted of housebreaking. The evidence was circumstantial.

RAILROAD WHISTLES. Waking the People Up in Harlan County.

Barboursville.—Harlan county and the vast area drained by the Upper Cumberland in Southeastern Kentucky is at last open to access, the finishing touches having been made on the Wasieto & Black Mountain railroad, a double extension of the Louisville & Nashville system, extending from Wasieto, near Pineville.

President Milton H. Smith, of the L. & N., made a tour of inspection of the new line and went over the industrial developments now being launched in the Black Mountain territory, which embraces the largest undeveloped coal area in the state.

Ellston.—At a mass meeting of the members of the local Methodist church subscriptions were secured, which make the total amount $1,100.

Gov. Wilson appointed W. A. Cross justice of the peace in Graves county and Ben W. Duval police judge of Graiz.

SEEKS TO BUY TIMBER LAND. Whitesburg.—Oscar A. Scales, of New York City, is negotiating for a large coal and timber tract along the new Lexington & Eastern railroad in this county.

Newport.—Through a combined effort put forth by several of the prominent judges and societies of Newport the quest of Guyman will be left out of the public school curriculum.

Richard Stoll, of Lexington, came tonight close to being circuit judge, to succeed Judge Wank Parker, and he might have had the appointment had he not gracefully stepped aside and endorsed Judge C. C. Kerr. When the Lexington bar declared for Judge Kerr, this bit of information came from Gov. Wilson, who said his opinion of Mr. Stoll, already which had greatly influenced him for the appointment. One of the others were Sam Wilson and Mr. Kerr.

MUNYON'S PAW-PAW PILLS

A trial package of Munyon's Paw Paw Pills will be sent free to anyone on request. Address Professor Munyon, 634 & Jefferson Sts., Philadelphia, Pa. If you are in need of medical advice, do not fail to write Professor Munyon. Your communication will be treated in strict confidence, and your case will be diagnosed as carefully as though you had a personal interview.

Munyon's Paw Paw Pills are unlike all other laxatives or cathartics. They coax the liver into activity by gentle methods. They do not scour, they do not grip, they do not weaken, but they do start all the secretions of the liver and stomach in a way that soon puts these organs in a healthy condition and corrects constipation. In my opinion constipation is responsible for most ailments. There are 26 feet of human bowels, which is really a sewer pipe. When this pipe becomes clogged the whole system becomes poisoned, causing biliousness, indigestion and impure blood, which often produces rheumatism and kidney ailments. No woman who suffers with constipation or any liver ailment can expect to have a clear complexion or enjoy good health. If I had my I would prohibit the sale of blue pills of the cathartics that are now being sold for the reason that they soon destroy the lining of the stomach, setting up serious forms of indigestion, and so paralyze the bowels that they refuse to act unless forced by strong purgatives.

Munyon's Paw Paw Pills are a tonic to the stomach, liver and nerves. They invigorate instead of weaken; they enrich the blood instead of impoverish it; they enable the stomach to get all the nourishment from food that is put into it.

These pills contain no calomel, no dope; they are soothing, healing and stimulating. They school the bowels to act without physic.

Regular size bottle, containing 45 pills, 25 cents. Munyon's Laboratory, 534 & Jefferson Sts., Philadelphia.

THE N-D'S GROUCH.

The Ledger regrets very much that the News-Democrat, of Paducah, is not satisfied with the course being pursued by the Western Kentucky rural press in the present gubernatorial race. We regret very much that all the rural roosters do not see fit to sneeze every time the N-D takes snuff, but we have likewise concluded that it is barely possible that these same rural roosters have reached the conclusion that they are entitled to the same unrestricted opinions the N-D claims for itself. Listen to this wall sent up by the N-D in a recent issue:

"It is regrettable to recall that a small number of the weekly papers of West Kentucky saw fit to oppose the candidacy of Judge Reed in the face of the worth of the man, as well as the sentiment established through years of actual conditions, during which the First district has been called upon to furnish the necessary democratic majority, but relinquishing the offices to the up-state politicians. This has been an established custom and one which has time and again called for comment from the press of this section of the state. In the candidacy of Judge Reed the first opportunity was presented to change this custom and, strange to relate, a number of the weekly papers of the First district supported the candidacy of Senator McCreary in preference to that of Judge Reed."

Now, the real facts in the case are not discussed or given to the public in the foregoing article.

When Judge Reed made his announcement for the democratic nomination for governor it came at the eleventh hour and well after a majority of the district newspapers had made expression and committed themselves to some other aspirant for the place. And again the announcement of Judge Reed came rather in the nature of a coercion upon the part of Paducah enthusiasts who seemed to be bent upon the defeat of Hon. Jas. B. McCreary. The few district papers which did express friendliness toward the candidacy of Judge Reed had previously declared that they would not support Mr. McCreary in event of his nomination and had predicted the defeat, apparently with considerable satisfaction, of the entire ticket at the November election. The Ledger believes that the boys of the First district press are as loyal as the state can boast, and that they will "get up behind, tooth and toe nail" every reputable aspirant for office who will make known his intentions at the proper time. The boys have never before been accused of disloyalty to their district and home men, and the wall from the recognized metropolis press comes with very poor grace at this particular time.

SHOOTS HIMSELF WITH REVOLVER.

Thursday morning, about 2 o'clock, W. C. Cooper, a well known farmer of the Gam Springs neighborhood, committed suicide by shooting himself.

He had been suffering from a nervous trouble and while in a despondent mood he killed himself.

He was found dead in a wagon bed where he had gone to penetrate the act of self destruction, a revolver and a bullet hole in his head being the mute evidences of the manner of his death.

On his body was found a note stating ill health was the cause of the act. He was about 60 years of age and is survived by his wife and seven children. Paris Post-Intelligencer.

THE LAW MILL IS GRINDING.

The regular April term of the Calloway Circuit Court was convened here Monday morning promptly at 9 o'clock by presiding judge, Hon. J. T. Hanberry, of Hopkinsville. Within a very short time after convening the work of organizing a grand jury was completed and the judge delivered his charge. The usual charge was delivered in an earnest manner by the judge and the jury gave the instructions close attention. The jury is composed of S. H. Dees, foreman; Douglas Moore, Cap Paschal, J. F. McDougal, C. S. Stubblefield, Ephram O. Crawford, J. D. Outland, John I. Ross, John C. Lassiter, W. B. Wilkerson, James W. Story and John R. Hale.

After securing a grand jury and giving instructions the petit jury was summoned and is composed of the following well known citizens: C. H. Wrather, Will Washer, Berry Hubbs, Noble Roberts, J. E. Houston, S. K. S. Bazzel, J. E. Sims, J. A. Bridges, I. N. Baldwin, J. F. Bradley, A. R. Copeland, A. C. Roberts, Thos. H. Chambers, Dick Ferguson, C. F. Holland, Henry Guerin, S. R. Dunn, Bill Rowland, J. J. Vance, Ezekiel H. Edwards, James Brewer, W. J. Winchester, O. B. Bedwell, De Wit Hopkins, Will T. Holcomb.

Hon. Jas. B. Allensworth was appointed by Judge Hanberry to conduct the commonwealths cases at this term of court and he arrived here Saturday to give his attention to the duties of the office, but when court was convened Mr. Allensworth was sick and could not take charge of the business. Hon. Denny P. Smith was notified of Mr. Allensworth's illness and arrived here Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock and will remain during the present term of court.

Quite a number of commonwealth cases have been called. H. C. Elliott, of Graves county, was acquitted of the charge of having whisky in his possession for the purpose of selling. This case came from Esq. Wade's court upon appeal. Galen Bray, a well known young man of the east side of the county, was acquitted of a similar charge. Houston Ellis, son of M. M. Ellis, was fined $100 for cutting "Ocus Caraway, while Vernon Humphreys compromised a similar charge by paying a fine of $50. The Claim of J. W. Phillips for horses killed by order of the live stock inspector because of glanders and appealed from the fiscal court by County Attorney, Erwin was ordered dismiss by the county attorney and the claim now goes back to the fiscal court for final adjustment. Cliff Adams compromised the case against him by paying a fine of $100 and Hub Riley paid the commonwealth $50 and compromised a case against him charging him with giving liquor to a minor. Albert Edridge stood trial upon a charge of having liquor in his possession for sale and caught a fine of $100 and ten days in jail. Bob Henry, for malicious shooting was fined $418 by a jury. The case against Carl Dowdy was called for trial and dismissed with leave to re-submit to the present grand jury. J. R. Grace, of LaCenter, and D. R. Webb, of Bardstown, were granted license to practice law.

EASTER at the WHITE HOUSE

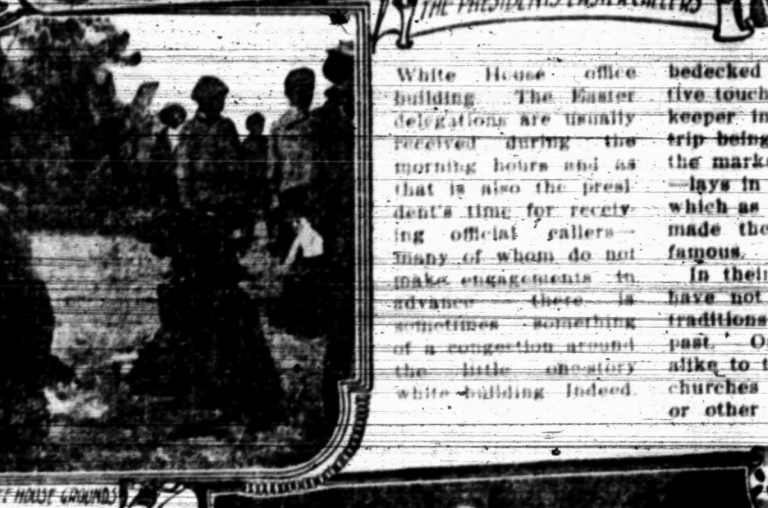

ASTER week is one of the busiest of the entire year at the White House in Washington. It is so much so that the President and his family find it difficult to find a moment of quietude. The President and his family find it difficult to find a moment of quietude. The President and his family find it difficult to find a moment of quietude.

THE PRESIDENT'S EASTER COLLEGE

EASTER EGG ROLLING ON THE WHITE HOUSE GROUNDS

day that inaugurates it is a time of activity at the first residence in the land. The merry whirl starts off with Easter Monday, but that is no new thing. For Easter Monday has been from time out of mind the occasion of the great annual egg rolling in the president's back yard. The juvenile frolic with yowling shouts and laughter filling the air has always been calculated to somewhat upset things around the executive mansion. And certainly it does turn things topsy-turvy from the standpoint of the gardeners and the men who care for the lawns, for as may be imagined, no expanse of greensward could be expected to emerge looking spick and span from the romp of 10,000 children armed with, say, 50,000, more or less, fragile eggs.

But nowadays the air of festivity does not depart with the setting sun, but continues for five or six days longer. The secret of it all is that Easter week has become, seemingly by common consent, a most popular time for visiting the national capital. That is, it is the time chosen by a numerically important section of the community—namely, the teachers of our public schools and their pupils. The practice has been growing apace during the past decade until now the school clans invade the seat of government by the thousands each Easter. It started with the teachers who began coming as individuals at this time of year, because they spring vacation gave them a few days' leisure at an opportune time for seeing the capital under the most advantageous conditions and the idea spread until now we find whole delegations of school marms coming by special train each Easter, and, oddly enough, many of the teachers come back year after year, at this time, perhaps to study political economy or history in the making.

Latterly the pupils of public grammar schools and high schools and of private schools for both girls and boys have been following the example of the teachers and have been recruiting Easter excursion parties to Washington personally conducted by teachers and chaperones. In a number of states this tendency has been encouraged by the educational authorities, who believe that object lessons at government making in Washington can profitably go hand in hand with book learning. The result has been that a number of the invading parties that have descended upon the City of Magnificent Distances these past few years have embraced practically the entire membership of their respective schools. But how, you are asking, does this make work for the president? Very simple—each and every one of these Easter visitors wants to not only see the president, but actually shake hands with him and say "Hello." Of the thousands upon thousands of children that make up the capital's Easter flock, at other seasons of the year, the great majority are entirely satisfied if they catch a glimpse of the president at the theater, at church, or walking on the street. Not so, the Easter pilgrims. They want an audience at court, and what is more to the point, they usually so agitate the matter with their respective congressmen and senators—bawling stress upon the educational status of the visit—that the lawmakers bestir themselves to secure dates at the White House.

If politics is in session at Easter time there is sure to be an especially heavy influx from the school rooms all over the land, and if the present occupant of the White House, it seems as though the fact spurs the pedagogues to fresh endeavors to secure the boon of a reception at the White House for themselves and their charges. And as for the private schools—particularly the "finishing schools" for young ladies—that send their pupils to Washington at the end of Lent, why any faculty of discretion as well as a "side trip" to the White House, the equal in privilege and prestige of that vouchsafed to the visitors from any rival institution.

But as has been said, this influx of admiring hosts makes a very busy week for the president. And it brings burdens to the foreheads of the secretaries who make out the schedule of, on the one hand, the president's Easter visitors and on the other, the president's Easter duties. The President's Easter duties are the Easter duties of the president's office at the White House.

White House office building. The Easter delegations are usually received during the morning hours and as that is also the president's time for receiving official callers. Many of whom do not make engagements to advance these is sometimes something of a competition around the little, shabby white building. Indeed, bedecked with flowers, is given an extra decorative touch by means of Easter lilies and the house-keeper in her daily rounds of the markets—the trip being made in a coupe which has supplanted the market wagon used by the Roosevelt steward—lays in an extra supply of the green vegetables, which as displayed at this season of the year, have made the Washington markets well nigh world-famous.

THE PRESIDENT'S EASTER COLLEGE

In their observance of Easter Sunday the Tafts have not departed to any great extent from the traditions of the White House occupants of the past. Ordinarily, the president and Mrs. Taft, like to their predecessors, the Roosevelts, attend churches of different denominations, but on Easter or other significant occasions they often go together to church, usually accompanied by the children. The president is conveyed to church by motor car, instead of walking as Roosevelt was wont to do, but Taft has taken to making up for it latterly by a long walk in the afternoon. This daily walk, which is especially prolonged on Sunday if the day be pleasant, is somewhat of a new wrinkle for the chief magistrate. Formerly he relied upon long horseback rides and several hours of golf every work day to give him the outdoor exercise that his physician declares that he must have with regularity. Latterly, however, his enthusiasm for both these pursuits seems to have waned and he is endeavoring to keep physically fit by a regime of exercise in the White House gymnasium supplemented by the daily walk.

Sometimes the president sets out for this afternoon stroll accompanied only by his military aid, Capt. Butt, but more often he has one or more friends with him or they join him en route. These pedestrians, followed by the two secret service men who are ever the president's shadow when he appears in public, form a "little procession," and yet it is a solemn march, for the president without recognizing him—perhaps because they do not expect to see him engaged in so thoroughly demerit a pursuit. However, there is one class of passersby who never fail to spot the distinguished commander. Automobiles that are seen in such numbers on the streets of Washington. They are likely to discover the approaching president when he is blocks away and their audiences are put on the alert.

A HOLIDAY OF JOY
I have never cared for the much-coveted Easter bonnet and have never made sacrifices to that end, but I do associate Easter with a day by the sea. To me the festival of Easter has always been the holiday of joy of all others in the year. It does not mean work nor religious service; but it does mean unadorned joy, and is always right at Dieppe, France, because I know that at this season of the year Dieppe is deserted, and that I shall be alone for the holiday of my abandonment on the sands.
I have a religious feeling, it is true, but I never discuss religion with anyone. I have always felt that religion is an individual affair, and that one's views should never be forced upon another. Mine is simple and satisfies me fully, but it might not satisfy others nor fit the conditions that surround other lives. Therefore from a religious viewpoint I never try to interfere with the standards of a right, which are God-given and as much of a right as any near right as my own.
But the season of Easter above all others appeals to me for very joy of living. I spend the days on the sands eating strimps and waiting, and on no other day of the year am I so free.—Mary Garden.

The Risen King

BY JOHN BAKWELL.

Hail, thou once despised Jesus!
Hail, thou Galilean King!
Thou didst suffer to release us,
Thou didst free salvation bring!
Hail, thought agonizing Savior,
Bearer of our sin and shame;
By thy merits we find favor,
Life is given through thy name.
Paschal Lamb, by God appointed,
All our sins on thee were laid;
By almighty love atoned for,
Thou hast full atonement made.
All thy people are forgiven,
Through the virtue of thy blood;
Opened is the gate of heaven,
Peace is made with all the God.
Jesus! hast thou triumphed in glory,
There forever to abide?
All the heavenly hosts adore thee,
Seated at thy Father's side.

There for sinners thou art pleading,
There thou dost our place prepare;
Ever for us interceding,
Till in glory we appear.
Worship, honor, power, and blessing,
Thou art worthy to receive;
Loudest praises, without ceasing,
Meet it is for us to give.
Help, ye bright angelic spirits,
Bring your sweetest, noblest lays;
Help to sing our Savior's merits,
Help to chant Immanuel's praise.
Soon we shall, with those in glory,
His transcendent grace relate;
Gladly sing the amazing story,
That those who hear shall praise.
We, for evermore shall dwell,
Crowned with bliss and consolation,
Such as none below can tell.

Before Allowing an Operation

Please Read These Two Letters.

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will prove how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before. Then after all that suffering Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored her health.

HERE IS HER OWN STATEMENT.

Paw Paw, Mich.—"Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement—I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for several months without much relief, and at last sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. To-day I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise every woman who is afflicted with any female complaint to try it."—Mrs. Orville Rock, R. R. No. 6, Paw Paw, Mich.

Rockport, Ind.—"There never was a worse case of woman's ill than mine, and I cannot begin to tell you what I suffered. For over two years I was not able to do anything. I was in bed for a month and the doctor said nothing but an operation would cure me. My father suggested Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so to please him I took it, and I improved wonderfully, so I am able to travel, ride horseback, take long rides and never feel any ill effects from it. I can only ask other suffering women to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial before submitting to an operation."—Mrs. Margaret Meredith, R. F. D. No. 3, Rockport, Ind.

We will pay a handsome reward to any person who will prove to us that these letters are not genuine and truthful—or that either of these women were paid in any way for their testimonials, or that the letters are published without their permission, or that the original letter from each did not come to us entirely unsolicited.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health, free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

The Awakening.

A Poor Weak Woman

As she is termed, will endure bravely and patiently agonies which a strong man would give way under. The fact is women are more patient than they ought to be under such troubles.

Every woman ought to know that she may obtain the most experienced medical advice free of charge and in absolute confidence and privacy by writing to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, R. V. Pierce, M. D., President, Buffalo, N. Y. Dr. Pierce has been chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., for many years and has had a wider practical experience in the treatment of women's diseases than any other physician in this country. His medicines are world-famous for their astonishing efficacy.

The most perfect remedy ever devised for weak and delicate women is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG.

SICK WOMEN WILL.
The many and varied symptoms of women's peculiar ailments are fully set forth in Plain English in the People's Medical Adviser (1008 pages), a newly revised and up-to-date edition, cloth-bound, will be sent on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay cost of wrapping and mailing exp. Address as above.

REPETITION

By HELEN WELBORN STEDMAN

(Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press)

Old gentleman Stufins looked prosperous manly, physically and mentally. Madam Stufins reflected the prosperous light that shone from her corpulent mate. Adjectives slightly modified in the negative quantity might be used in describing their one offspring, Maria

Stufins, known as Marie, with a few adjectives of quality added to denote fluffy lightness of hair, pinky whiteness and eyes almost too blue.

Lovers there were none. In vain they camped in a palatial home in their own town or stayed in fashionable hotels of the three border states. In

New York or San Francisco, New Orleans or Chicago it was the same.

In vain they were whisked by six-cylinder, noiseless motors from watering place to watering place.

In fact, the Stufins seemed to be on a tour to prove American man wants more than money when taking a bride. And Father Stufins, mentally and orally to his spouse—

determined that only America could turn the trio into a quartet.

The room was well but plainly furnished after the fashion of hotels.

It had been a whim of this prosperous two to have one room as they found it, and it was there they spent many happy hours together talking over checks to be sent to charities and little helps here and there among acquaintances of days when they, too, struggled for bread.

"I sometimes wonder why Marie is without admirers and lovers, Jake.

She is so good and kind and prosperous in so many ways, and not a homely girl."

"She has not the gift of gab and entrancing shift of glancing which seem to please mankind; both young and old."

"Marie looks like me," said the wife, glancing into the mirror.

"That's a fact well known, Jane."

"Why did you love me?" she asked, rather dreamily.

The great man smiled as he rose and looked out of the window, musingly.

"Jennie," he said, a twinkle in his eye, "I was acquainted with you ten years before I knew you. Then

I was suddenly introduced. You remember the ride you took one dark, cold night to warn Jonesville of intended burglary? You had heard a scrap of conversation between three suspicious chaps in a railroad station, and thought it meant robbery, and thinking, acted."

He stopped. Mrs. Jacob Stufins stood still in the center of the room,

a slow, reminiscent light passing over the too full face and into the slightly faded eyes.

"Jennie," he continued, and the husband moved involuntarily toward her, "when I heard of that foaming horse and plucky girl who saved the bank of Jonesville I thought for the first time of you. Then came the reception given by the bankers wives. You were a little beyond the model 36. You wore pale blue with white, soft fluffy lace, and your eyes shone. Jove, Jennie, how they shone!" He looked at her tenderly as he drew her toward him. "And,

Jennie, I am thankful for that ride."

Marie Stufins galloped along the soft, sandy road, sniffing the sweet scent of the softly murmuring pines, her groom galloping at a precise correctness of distance behind her.

A sound floated through the pines that was not a sigh of the trees, which, as she galloped on, reached her ears in louder and louder strains.

It was a cry, a scream of anguish.

Marie halted, listened, waved her whip to the groom and sent her horse dashing on through an opening in the clearing toward the sound.

She reached the spot, jumped from her horse, ran into the cabin, pushed the screaming pickaninnies away, gently thrust the weeping colored woman aside and stooped over the injured darky.

"Water!" cried the girl to the groom near her; "handkerchief, towel, anything to tear!" Between waits and moans and splashes of blood she flung the knot that stopped the flow of blood.

Two great, swarthy darkies stood in the doorway, their faces pale with fright, their forms stationary with horror.

"The missus' hat and gloves," he shouted. "A man is killed, the ole doctah, to come in auto; me too, and you, all be quick!"

The old doctor standing in the door of the hot, stuffy, ill-smelling look in the situation at a glance.

The closed eyes of the form on the bed, the arm where blood had stopped its flow, the mammy weeping softly, the children huddled together, the groom standing helplessly at the foot of the bed, and the fair head of the girl bent over to catch the faint beat of the overworked heart.

The young doctor following saw all this and more.

Two hours later they stood by the automobile. In the cabin all was quiet save the slow, regular breathing of the worn form on the bed.

Outside the pickaninnies stood, their eyes shining with love and awe at the lady. The woodmen stood, hats off. Mammy had followed the lady down the little path and stood looking up at the fair face that had not a trace of color, only the halo of a wealth of hair.

"Honey, youn' shuah is—" The lips trembled and the eyes filled with tears.

The girl laid her hands on the woman's shoulders.

"I am glad I could help you,

mammy. Mother will come this afternoon to bring you and the children all you need until pap is well again. Good-by now."

The old doctor murmured something about nobleness, as his eyes were veiled by a suspicious moisture.

The young doctor mentally registered, "By heaven, what a girl! And you, Morris Barlow, have lived in the hotel with her a month and never knew."

The lights blazed at Hotel Beechwood. The dance music filled not only the dancers, but those who listened with tingles and thrills.

A stout lady in velvet and diamonds and a very stout man in diamonds and black walked majestically across the rotunda and down the steps to the Japanese garden.

"Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Stufins, many times millionaires," whispered

a long stayer to a newcomer.

They stopped among the palms

at the railing to watch the dancers below. One couple seemed to hold their attention, and as they stood watching the light in their eyes deepened and softened and glowed, and a great fat hand stole under the filmy scarf of the transfigured Mrs.

Stufins who, with a little smile slipped her hand into the great palm.

"Jennie," whispered the great man, leaning over her, "Dr. Barlow loves Marie."

The soft, tender eyes looked for a moment at the girl.

As she whispered, softly:

"And, Jacob, Marie loves Dr. Barlow."

Dr. Barlow, the great fat hand, slipped his hand from the girl's and slipped it into the pocket of his trousers.

RAISE GOOD STOCK; BREED TO FAMOUS BLOODED HORSES—AND—JACKS.

W. L. WHITNELL,
Successor to Mason & Irvan.

I have recently purchased from Mason & Irvan, their stable of fine horses and jacks, consisting of Sprague Patch, 48421, son of the world famous Dan Patch and a living image of his sire, the most noted horse in the world with a record of 1:55. The fee is reasonable, considering that you may raise a colt worth thousands of dollars, and is far less than fees usually charged for horses of this high character.

Braden Gentry, 0966, sired by the great pacer, John R. Gentry, one of the most beautiful horses you ever saw. Some of his colts have sold for $150.00 at weaning time.
Favorite Cook, 39036, son of the great Capt. Cook, is a beautiful chestnut sorrel, 16 hands high. Known the country over for his fine quality and as a great breeder.
Mason's Hamlet, 2588, a raven black, five-gaited saddle stallion, a great breeder, and has shown some of the finest colts for the past few seasons ever seen in Kentucky.
The Two Jacks—NAPOLEON and PARAGON have never been defeated in the show ring. Napoleon won at Nashville and Louisville. He is 16 hands high, white points, weighs 1250 pounds. Paragon won at the great Memphis Tri-State Fair. These are known as two of the greatest living jacks.

My stable is located at my home place, south-west corner of the town of Murray, west of Fair grounds. I expect to add other stock from time to time and am in the stock business permanently. I solicit the patronage of all West Kentucky stock men. Fletcher McKnight, who has been handling this stock for some time will have charge of the barn.

Both phones 109 All stock sent to our stables will be well cared for. Fees Reasonable
A rare chance to breed to the Best blood on Earth.

THOMAS ROSE MEETS DEATH.

Hardin, Ky., April 7.—Thomas Rose, assistant operator for the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis here, stepped back from delivering train orders to the crew of southbound freight No. 108 tonight and directly into the path of northbound passenger No. 103. He was knocked under the wheels of the freight whose orders he had brought and was ground to death, his head being severed completely from his body.

The main line, upon which the passenger train was coming into Hardin, lies between the station and the side track upon which the freight was waiting. The trains are scheduled to meet at this place and Rose evidently had tried to regain the station platform before the passenger train pulled in on the main line. Whether he was killed by the impact with the passenger train, or whether the mutilation under the wheels of the freight caused his death is not known.

Do You Get Up With a Lame Back?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable. Almost everyone knows of Dr. Kilmor's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because of its remarkable health restoring properties. Swamp-Root not only cures almost every ailment connected with the urinary passage, but corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night.

Swamp-Root is recommended for everything that will have kidney, liver or bladder trouble. It will be found just the remedy you need. It has been thoroughly tested in private practice, and has proved so successful that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmor & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all druggists. Don't make any mistake but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmor's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

PROMINENT CANDIDATE FOR SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT.

Prof. Barksdale Hamlett, superintendent of the city schools of Hopkinsville, and one of the foremost candidates for the democratic nomination for state superintendent of public instruction, subject to the action of the democratic state primary July 1st, was a visitor in Murray the first of the week and made announcement of his candidacy to the voters of Calloway county in the court house at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon. Prof. Hamlett is a young man of exceptional ability and has accomplished great things for the schools of Hopkinsville. He has been the instrument whereby Christian county and Hopkinsville will soon boast of the finest high school building in the entire state. It will stand as a monument to his energy and ability, and should he be nominated and elected to the position to which he aspires, and can accomplish for the schools of the state what he has for the schools of Hopkinsville, it will be readily agreed that the cloud of ignorance and illiteracy that now hangs over our state like a terrible pall will gradually but certainly be lifted.

IRVAN LAND NOW ON SALE

THE 100 acres of the Irvan land just outside the corporate limits of Murray has been surveyed off into 5 acre tracts and is now for sale by Asher Graham at very reasonable prices. The land lies just south of the Linn Grove road and joins the west line of the corporation of the town of Murray. You can live in town on a small farm, and have no corporation taxes to pay; it is only 4 blocks of the Murray School building. Five acres of this land can be bought for what you will have to pay for a residence lot in the city of Murray.

On some of these tracts are good dwellings that go in with the land at a sacrifice. On lot No. 4 is located one of the finest stock barns in the state; these stables were formerly occupied by Mason & Irvan, and can be had at a price that you can afford to buy; at less than what it cost to build it. Property lying by the side of this land has been sold in the past few years for 4 times the amount that we are asking for this property. This is a chance for a bargain that you cannot afford to miss. Any information in regard to these lots will be cheerfully furnished at the real estate office of Asher Graham.

CLOTHING AT HALF PRICE

AT THE ALLEN BLDG.

I have consigned to me 200 suits of clothing and a number of odd pants including young men's fancy as well as staple patterns. These goods positively must be sold at once. This is a chance to make your money do double work. The prices I am making are way below manufacturers cost and it means a big loss—but money saved for the buyer.

These suits are all in perfect condition and are not shipped in riff raff. Many of them are stylish up-to-date suits. Every suit must be turned into cash during the time named.

IT'S AN EVENT THAT MEANS A SAVING OF MANY DOLLARS TO THOSE WHO PROFIT BY IT.

IT GROWS HAIR.

Here are Facts That We Want You to Prove at Our Risk.

Marvelous as it may seem, Rexall '93' Hair Tonic has grown hair on heads that were once bald. Of course, in none of these cases were the hair roots dead, nor had the scalp taken on a glazed shiny appearance.

Rexall '93' Hair Tonic acts scientifically, destroying the germs which are usually responsible for baldness. It penetrates to the roots of the hair, stimulating and nourishing them. It is a most pleasant toilet necessity, is delicately perfumed, and will not gum or permanently stain the hair.

We want you to get a bottle of Rexall '93' Hair Tonic and use it as directed. If it does not relieve scalp irritation, remove dandruff, prevent the hair from falling out and promote an increased growth of hair, and in every way give entire satisfaction, simply come back and tell us, and without question or formality we will hand back to you every penny you paid us for it. Two sizes, 50c and $1.00. Sold only at our store. The Rexall store. Dale & Stubblefield.

ARTIST CHARMER 2391.

NEW HORSE FOR CALLOWAY.

This fine horse will stand this season at my home, six miles west of Murray, two miles northeast of Lynn Grove, at $15 to insure a living colt. This horse has never before stood for less than $25. I bought him of Dr. W. W. Franklin, of Glasgow, Ky. Do not want to breed him to any swapping mares.

* ARTIST CHARMER is 6 years old, red bay, size 15.3, sired by Happy Cross 435, he by Artist 73, he by King Wildam 67, he by Washington Denmark 64. First dam Maidie Cromwell 429, by Cromwell Jr. (Franklin) 1039. Second dam Mollie S by Vidette Boy, by Alexander's Lexington 228.

Artist Chamer is a beautiful bay, with small star; has a great mane and tail, the latter he carries to perfection naturally, is of a grand appearance, proud as a peacock, goes all the gaits, is broke to harness and is a fine breeder. He is a medal-winner in the best society; was a winner in the $1000 saddle stake at Pembroke, Ky., 1903, with ten entries of the best horses in Kentucky and Tennessee. His sire sold for $2,500 and his grandsire for $2000 at the age of 16 years.

A Medicine That Does Not Cost Anything Unless it Cures.

The active medicinal ingredients of Rexall Orderlies, which are odorless, tasteless and colorless, is an entirely new discovery. Combined with other extremely valuable ingredients, it forms a perfect bowel regulator, intestinal invigorator and strengthener. Rexall Orderlies are eaten like candy and are notable for their agreeableness to the palate and gentleness of action. They do not cause griping or any disagreeable effect or inconvenience.

Unlike other preparations for a like purpose, they do not create a habit, but instead they overcome the cause of habit created through the use of ordinary laxatives, cathartics and harsh physic, and permanently remove the cause of constipation or irregular bowel action.

We will refund your money without argument if they do not do as we say they will. Two sizes, 25c and 10c. Sold only at our store—the Rexall Store. Dale & Stubblefield.

Bad breath, bitter taste, dizziness and a general "no account" is a sure sign of a torpid liver. Herbine is the medicine needed. It makes the liver active, vitalizes the blood, regulates the bowels and restores a fine feeling of energy and cheerfulness. Price 50c. Sold by Dale & Stubblefield.

His private official diary "This wretched impostor us all by the ears," he

...the question were the Scullys in my possession when I closed the desk, called a hansom, and directed the caddy to drive to Kensington Gardens. I was too old a hand to let myself be biased by more newspaper talk; so was prepared to meet Count Ashley on neutral ground. If I supposed the "family affair" concerned the claimant.

Now, my suspicion of Jack was vindicated when my client blurted the matter nearest his heart: of course the case meant to him everything in the world—wealth, position and political preferment.

"Where is he now?" I inquired.

Viscount Ashley gave an embarrassed laugh.

"To tell you the truth, he said I had killed him, bottled up down at the castle."

"At this he begged my surprise, for he went on apologetically. "You see I want to avoid as much fuss as possible." As long as the dowagers of his side let him get up his hip and thigh, he had him on all the dowager chairs, and he was so quiet, and so obedient, and told her to shut up. So to escape the rural talk and to get him under my own eye, I invited him over to the castle last night. He can't keep him there now. He frightens my wife."

"To death."

While the viscount was speaking I had determined to try and solve this mystery.

"Are you going down to Patrie tonight?" I inquired, consulting my watch.

"That was my intention," said Ashley, "unless—"

"Then I'll ask you to put me up in a day or two. I'd like to study the boundary of yours at close range."

"By George," Callister, that's no record of you," exclaimed my elder brother.

"Well, I'll have time to make a tour to 5-10 at Paddington and be home to-night."

"Patrie Castle? It should be explained was charmingly situated in the Thames valley about an hour's run from London."

"I may as well confess that my first glance at Lord Ashley, as he called himself, was a disappointment. I thought I should find a Patrie Castle. But he showed all the signs of hard living; he was no worse looking than many a man knowing about London town."

He was tall, and had shaven a severe to dress for dinner. But he wore his evening clothes like a man who had been to the theatre. He put his mouth to talk the illusion of a check. The tone, the accent, the

The story was: Thomas Jefferson was negligent in the discharge of one of his numerous duties as factotum of the gentlemanly but somewhat slovenly President, by overlooking the furnishing house of Burke & Foster, who were the first to furnish the White House (Arthur being the first named except a man called "the old fellow" who had inadvertently swindled the President for $10,000). The result was that on the fifth, the basis of which was soot and dirt, the floor of the unrolled display case was covered with mud. The window awning at the identical instant that Angelica passed beneath it, was blown down, and the result was that both had dirt and mud on their faces and hair.

"It's ruined," Angelica glowered. "Or—refer to the pecuniary loss."

Then he sought out his friend Mr. Samuel Hayes, of the Universal Dry Cleaning Company.

"Sam," said Arthur, depositing his glass on the mahogany, "can you clean purple velvet?"

Mr. Hayes frowned meditatively at the bit of twisted lime-pearl at the bottom of the glass, and finally answered confidently:

"Show me anything I can't clean in the dry goods line and I'll blow you to a dinner."

Arthur was delighted. Arrangements were completed on the spot for restoring the purple velvet gown to its pristine beauty, and Arthur hastened back to his office.

Two hours later the velvet gown, carefully wrapped by Arthur's own hands, was speeding via special messenger to the plant of the Universal Dry Cleaning Company.

If Arrur imagined that his troubles were over he was speedily disabused of the ideal. The expressed confidences of his friend Sam was not borne out in deed. It proved an easy task to rehabilitate the hat, but the gown—ah, the gown!

The stains refused to go, even under the stimulus offered his cleaner. Mei while, Mr. Hayes learned to anatomize his friend Arthur in a most whole-souled manner. Arthur, on his part, thought evil things of Mr. Hayes and took a devilish pleasure

Then began a campaign among the cleaning establishments of the great city, like that of which we have heard before. Arthur scarcely ate or slept. Business was neglected. His face became haggard. His eyes assumed a wild, unearthly light. By day and by night the gown was upon him, and he thought of nothing but the gown, the gown, the gown! By the owner of the gown, who he had seen several times, ostensibly in regard to the progress he was making in the elimination of the spots.

As far as Angerstein was concerned, he had no interest in the fate of the gown, and her attention became rather forcibly centered on Arthur.

Summer was passing by. The summer of like and of rejections, the manuscript, came back from the laundress of the dry cleaners, the pile pressed tightly gone from it and the results of the treatment.

Thomas Jefferson White's misguidance

Arthur called at the home of a police, bearing his personal check for $100.

Some hours later he left. "Four steps which led up to Angela's room may have been in their usual place, but as Arthur floated on air, neither saw nor felt the steps. All that he saw was a hundred-dollar check pressed in his pocketbook.

The following day, the stub being Angela's name was marked "Cancelled," and the next following day the name of a well-known jewelry firm.

Autumn arrived. Thomas Jefferson White, repentant in a new suit, black and distinguished by his brown and copper grin, opened the door to a procession of guests at Angela's home.

As the harpers struck up the wedding march and the bride gilded the large drawing room, a university student, who had been in the room, it was discovered that instead of conventional white she wore purple.

SCIENTIFIC PLACE JAZZ

Arthur hastily interjected, discerning a resumption of the storm.

Arthur maintained. Even to his experienced eye the adown seemed ruined. Bettie unacquainted with the value of the goods, was not so much with respect to the hat. Obviously it was Thomas Jefferson's fault. It was also as obvious that as Thos Jefferson received, but eight dollars for this misdeed or less value for his services, upon which he was in the task of supporting a helpless and rearing numerous and hungry progeny, it was as possible to deduce from his actions a lesson to be drawn from his example as to the firm.

Arthur, as the visible representative of the firm, would have to do something. The easiest way out of the predicament would have been to write a check for the same amount and have it cashed. But it unfortunately proved that three hundred dollars the exact sum Arthur required to complete the purchase price of a motor car.

Heard, and he was not disposed to dispute her statement.

"I'll tell you what I'll do," he murmured hopefully. "If you will let me the hat and gown, I will meet you at the door."

Angelica was not disposed to be reasonable.

"Very well," she answered in a reproving tone, "I will give a chance."

She was on the point of ascending majestically from office, when she caught sight of her reflection. Her face was pale, her eyes were red, and she stood and springing indignantly into the room, with a deep bow open the door of a lavatory.

She looked at herself in the mirror. Angelica thawed perceptibly, a man with a little less than her own lot in the Russian air, that she had been so long in the country.

Fifteen minutes later it was serene Angelica who emerged, and her face wore its usual aspect, and night the gown was upon his mind when his thoughts were not occupied by the owner of the gown, whom he had seen several times, ostensibly in regard to the progress he was making in the elimination of the spots.

As far as Angelica herself was concerned, she had lost interest in the fate of the gown, and her attention became rather forcibly centered.

Summer was passing by. The gown, like a frayed and off-reject manuscript, came back from the la of the dry cleaners, the pile practically gone from it and the results Thomas Jefferson White's misguid efforts blazer and blacker than ex

Component Parts Are Merely Individual Cells, According to Argument of Samuel Butler.

Samuel Butler argues that, as automatic experience in piano playing proves previous practice, so also does the immediate experience in pecking of a newly-hatched chick. To the question of personal identity; and again. This brings up the whole question: How can a newly hatched chick have had any practice in pecking? Butler replies that the cells of the chick once lived in its parents' bodies, and that it remembers what they did (or what it did in them), and can therefore do it again. This brings up the whole question of personal identity; and Butler deals with it. We say that an octogenarian is the same "person" as he was when an infant; yet there is no identity of matter. Nor does personality depend upon any consciousness or sense of such personality; it is not likely that the moth remembers having been a caterpillar, any more than we remember having been children of a day old. And if the octogenarian is the infant of eighty years ago he is also the fetus of a few months before, and chasing him still further back—he is identical with his parents. This "involves the probable unity of all animal and vegetable life, as being, in reality, nothing but one single creature, of which the component members are but, as it were, blood corpuscles or individual cells," which would fit in rather well with the similar argumentation of Pechner.

Through the Grocer He Sold His Employer the Apples From His Own Orchard.

"Out in the Oranges of New Jersey Mrs. Philip Carr owns a handsome farm, says the New York correspondent of the Cincinnati Times-Star. As she lives in the city it is about as expensive a proposition as owning a yacht. No farm owner who doesn't live on his place ever made a dollar in this neighborhood. "I wouldn't care," said Mrs. Carr, "if I could only get good apples from my farm. There is a lovely orchard on it, but my hired man tells me that it doesn't bear. So I have to buy my apples." Her guests told her that she certainly had good taste in the matter of buying apples. The dish in the middle of the table was heaped up with big, red globes. Her guests liked them so well that they insisted on finding out where they came from. Mrs. Carr gave them the address of her grocer. The grocer said he got them from a middleman in the Oranges. The guests, having nothing better to do and owning a large car that was eating its head off, rode out to the middleman the next day. "We got some delicious apples from a grocer," they said. "He said he got them from you. We want to buy a barrel or two." The middleman took the order at once. "But I won't be able to deliver them until next week," said he. "That's when Mrs. Carr's hired man comes to town. They're all grown on her place." That hired man has lost his job.

Fete Organized by Mission Folk in a Chinese Village Has a Tragic Ending.

There was a tragic ending recently to a fete organized at a Chinese village in honor of the birthday of a member of the Southern Presbyterian mission. An amateur theatrical performance was one of the features of the fete, in the course of which Dr. Yang was to be killed by an assassin. The students had requested that the assassin's knife should be made of wood or tin, but Dr. Yang insisted that it should be the real thing. This was agreed to, but it was stipulated that he should wear a breastplate. As soon as he was stabbed he was to fall to the ground, whereupon a red liquid, prepared beforehand, was to flow from the wound. No one knows how it was that the doctor appeared on the stage without his breastplate. Certain it is that he did not put on the breastplate, and the assassin, Dr. Zannon, unaware of the omission, drove his knife into the doctor's heart. It was not until the interval that the discovery was made that the doctor was dead. Dr. Zannon, horror-stricken, gave himself up to the police.

Next Speaker of the House of Representatives Was Really Chieftone "James Beauchamp."

Long before he came into prominence as prospective speaker-elect of the house of representatives Champ Clark became, as he has ever since continued to be, one of the picturesque characters of Washington. It was a rare treat to sit down with him at one of the tiny tables of the lunchroom where the phibian public are wont to dine and join him in digesting a piece of pumpkin pie (and be sure to call it "pumpkin," it seems to be sure to the liking of Champ Clark to eat with "the common folks" to take his place in the inner sanctum marked "Members Only."

Argument With Which Englishman Killed Lloyd George's Plan to Tax "Ungotten Minerals."

Capt. Sylvanus Smith, the noted Gloucester fisherman, was talking at the New Willard, in Washington, about reciprocity. "I have come down here," he said, "to oppose reciprocity in fish. I wish I had as good a weapon to oppose it with as that used by an Englishman against the Lloyd George budget. "The Lloyd George budget contained a tax on 'ungotten minerals'—on all such undug minerals as your land might contain—and the Englishman, Harold Cox, killed the tax with ridicule. "If we are going to tax land for its 'ungotten minerals,' he said, 'let us carry the scheme to its logical conclusion and tax bachelors for their 'ungotten children.'"

New York Florist Closed Shop and Gave Murdered St. Bernard a Real Funeral.

Seldom do we find a man who has the courage to do what Ibsen's Hordis Gable called "a really beautiful thing." This is quite a promise world, after all, and folk look askance at the man who will do a deed of sentiment in broad daylight. But such things do happen, just once in a while. The other day a New York florist closed all his shops and held a funeral for his loved St. Bernard dog, whom a fiend had poisoned. Regular services were held at the master's house, and the minister who read the service delivered a touching eulogy on dogs and on Leo in particular. The dog's body was borne to the grave by four children who had known Leo since he was a puppy. Around the grave the mourners sang a hymn. Was the minister ashamed to officiate at a dog's funeral? Not a bit. "It seems to me eminently proper and fitting," the minister said; "I knew Leo as a friend, and as a friend I mourn his tragic taking off. Of all earthly creatures none is so faithful as one's dog." A highly beautiful sentiment!—Denver Times.

OBSERVING LENT ON LINKS

Young Clergyman Abjures Sand and Declines to Play His Ball From Tee.

"The observance of lent, I am happy to say, is world-wide. Lent even manifests itself on the golf field." The speaker was Mrs. R. H. Barlow, the Philadelphia champion. Smiling, she resumed: "At the Country club the other day I played in a foursome with a young clergyman. As this young clergyman prepared to tee off, his caddy, taking a pinch of sand in his hand, stooped and said: "High tee, sir?" "No, thank you, my lad," said the young clergyman. "Flat on the ground. I abjure sand during lent."

ARTISTS' PLUNDERS.

"I never saw an artist yet who could correctly paint a horseshoe," remarked a friend of mine, pausing before a Broadway picture store. "They invariably paint it with an equal number of nails on each side, sometimes three, sometimes four, and even five nails. As a matter of fact there are four on one side and three on the other, the extra nail being on the inside of the foot, where the greatest strain comes. Which reminds me of the lines of a distinguished American poet in which he sweetly depicts the drowsy cattle on a summer's day lazily lapping the cooling waters of the crystal stream. The same peculiarity is also poetically attributed to the horse and other animals, the model of the poet having probably been the house cat.—From an old scrap book.

HIS MONEY OR HIS WIFE.

Now and then John B. Stanchfield tells a new story. The other night he was a guest at the dinner of the sheriff's panel, always the most ornate dinner of the year. It costs $40,000, and, to dispose of this fund the dinner master provided solid silver souvenirs, in addition to the barrels of vintage champagne. Mr. Stanchfield told this yarn to illustrate a point: "A very wealthy man got a note from the Black Hand," said he. "It read as follows: 'If you do not send us $100,000 we will kill your wife.' "The millionaire replied at once to the address given: 'Nothing doing on the money; but I'd like to hear from you further. Your proposition interests me.'—Cincinnati Times-Star.

THRIFTY GIRL STUDENTS.

The number of young women in Oberlin college who are wholly or partly self-supporting is given in a bulletin recently issued by the committee on beneficiary aid. Twenty-six support themselves entirely and 51 in part. Thirty-six others are using money earned before they entered college. Of these 40 teach school, 11 do office work, 14 do housework, 7 are nursemaids, 11 factor in the college, 1 is a companion, 1 is a music teacher and 1 is a circus saleswoman. Others are engaged in the following occupations: Playground assistant, library assistant, postoffice assistant, artist, rug-weaving, clerk, market gardening and seamstress.

HIS CONTRIBUTION.

"A college has just made me a doctor of literature." "What did you ever write?" "Well, I wrote on a very large check."

Mrs. Newpop, Uncle William has just lost all his fortune. Mr. Newpop—What a pity—and we just named the baby after him last week.

ENGLISH SKYSCRAPER.

Almost rivaling New York, there is now nearing completion at Liverpool a "sky scraper" 380 feet high. The new structure is a remarkable building. Including the twin towers that form its apex, it has 16 stories, each of a generous depth. There are no fewer than 18 lifts in the building. The structure is built on the ferro-concrete principle and its foundations are some 60 feet below street level. It is to win distinction by having a clock larger than that of Westminster. There will be three faces on one turret and one face on another 300 feet away. Each face will have its separate motor to drive its 14 feet fingers.

GOING, GOING, GONE.

An auctioneer has had an extraordinary experience at Old Colwyn. As he entered a room where a sale was to take place he was astonished to see the people in it, about 40 in number, as well as the furniture, all vanish through the floor before his eyes. When he realized what had happened he perceived that the people and the furniture had fallen into the cellar, ten feet below, owing to the giving way of the floor. No one, however, was seriously injured, though there was a good deal of alarm. A step ladder was procured and the people ascended it amid considerable merriment. Cardiff Western Mail.

Our main objection to woman suffrage is that when the mistress and the cook both have the ballot there will be nobody to get dinner on election day.—Galveston News.

HOW TO BEHAVE IN SOCIETY

You Must Not Act as If You Thought of "Bad" Real Good Sense.

Never appear absent-minded in company. To be absent-minded is indicative that the person is thinking, and society has no use for people who think.

When dining at a private house, if you fold your napkin it indicates that you have no servants at home; if you do not fold it, it indicates that you have no sense. Most society people prefer the latter.

When rising from your chair never touch the chair with your hands. It is unnatural not to guide or help yourself with your hands, but any thing that is unnatural and idiotic generally is good form.

ENEMIES OF MATRIMONY.

Wedlock seems to be in a bad way in the mountains of the Dauphine. The confirmed bachelors of the country have decided to meet every month and toast celibacy. Invitations are sent out with the information, "Good feeding, good drinking, much laughter, much dancing."

An added insult to matrimony is that the invitations have been sent to all spinsters who have "put on St. Katherine's cap," that is to say who are over twenty-five and are therefore presumed to be on the high road to old maidhood. The confirmed bachelors announce their intention of eating, drinking, laughing and dancing with the old maids every month. But their very harshness may be their undoing.—London Telegraph.

A CHEAP CYNIC.

Champ Clark, at a banquet in Washington, defended the honesty of American politicians. "It is cheap cynicism," he said, "nothing but cheap cynicism, to talk like Binks. "Do you think it follows, a friend said to Binks, 'that because a man is a politician he is a liar?' "Oh, no," Binks retorted; 'but unless a man was an expert liar I don't believe he could be called much of a politician.'"

EXCHANGE OF IMPRESSIONS.

"A man will go to sleep in Philadelphia," said the New Yorker. "Yes," replied the Philadelphian. "And in New York he wishes he could."

NOT HIS FAULT.

"Johnnie! I never thought I should hear you swear!" "I never thought you would either, mamma. The girl said you had gone to town."

A MISUNDERSTANDING.

"Sir, this morning your son made an asperation." "Bless that boy! He's always making some new kind of invention."

VALUABLE MAN.

"They tell me Gubbins thinks everything of that Swiss chauffeur of his." "Yes. There isn't an auto horn made that can match his rodline."—Local.

DELICATE MATTER

Jack—Wouldn't you like to be famous? Jennie—Well, I should say not. Jack—Why not? Jennie—Do you suppose I would want to have the date of my birth a matter of history?

REALLY WONDERFUL LAWYER.

There was a prosecuting attorney in Texas whose methods were so dramatic and—unfortunately successful—that he not only became the terror of evil doers, but an object of admiration, especially among the negroes.

Upon retirement from office he was at once much sought after by those charged with crime. The first two cases which he defended resulted in conviction, much to his chagrin.

An old negro who had watched his prosecution in admiring wonder and looked on with equal interest when he conducted the defense, accosted him just after his defeat and said: "Mars Earle, yo sho' is a wonder. No matter which side you's on they go to the pen just the same."—Case and Comment.

HIS SUSPICION.

"Are you a friend of the groom's family?" asked the usher at the church wedding. "I think not," replied the lady addressed. "I'm the mother of the bride."

FOR IDEAS.

Bill—What are you scratching your head for? Till—Trying to get some ideas out of it. After try a vacuum cleaner."

PHILOSOPHY.

"Pa, what is philosophy?" "Philosophy, my boy, is the gentle art of letting your creditors do all the worrying."

DIDN'T WANT GREEN HORSES.

Irishman, Seeking Mounts for St. Patrick's Day Parade, Wanted Them All Gray.

A florid-looking Irishman drifted into the office of a big firm of horse dealers. He came from a benevolent association that is famous as one of the biggest aggregations of Irishmen outside of the Emerald Isle. He asked for Mr. Kearney, of the firm. "O! want twenty gray horses for the parade St. Patrick's day," he announced after exhibiting his credentials.

"Twenty gray horses?" exclaimed Mr. Kearney, "that's quite an order. I don't believe we have twenty gray horses in the stables. We could give you about a dozen grays."

The Irishman shook his head; there were twenty officials of the order that had to be mounted. Then suddenly it occurred to Mr. Kearney that a carload of horses was on its way from the west; even then the bill of lading was on his desk, and the consignment could not be far from Jersey City.

"Hold on," said he, "I guess I can fix you up. I'm expecting a carload of green horses, and—"

"Green?" gasped the Irishman, as he jumped to his feet. "Green horses? Th' devil roast 'em!" But he laughed just as heartily as did Mr. Kearney when it was explained to him that green was not actually the color of the horses.

RESOURCEFUL COUNT D'ORSAY.

D'Orsay was once dining at the Old Ship hotel at Greenwich when someone called his attention to an inscription made with a diamond upon the central pane of the bay window overlooking the Thames, in which his name was improperly connected with that of a celebrated German dancer. D'Orsay took an orange from a dish, coolly remarking upon the good quality of the fruit and tossed it up in the air several times, then as though by accident he gave it a wider cant and sent it through the offending pane, knocking the glass into the Thames. Jerrold: "Beaux and Dandies."

MAKING LIGHT OF HER YEARS.

Marie Dressler was inviting her friends to a birthday party. "There'll be a birthday cake, I suppose," some one remarked. "Yes, there'll be a cake, never fear," was the reply. "And candles, of course?" went on the alleged wit. "My friend," said Miss Dressler, "this is to be a birthday party, not a torchlight procession."

PITY.

Billy Handsome Mr. Rogers danced with me—danced, I mean. Molly—Well, it's a charity ball, you know. "Smart Set."

MUSEUM MUSES.

Manager—Where's "The Bearded Lady?" Fat Boy—He was arrested yesterday for bigamy.

HE HAD FORGOTTEN.

The absent mindedness of a clergyman, temporarily in charge of a leading Belfast church, was responsible for a singular dilemma in which a bridal party was placed the other day. The ceremony was fixed for nine o'clock a. m., and punctually at that hour the bridal party arrived, the church, one of the most spacious in Ireland, being by this time filled with relatives and friends of the contracting parties. The sexton was in attendance, but no clergyman. After a lapse of an hour, anxiety gradually gave way to a feeling of alarm. The bride swooned twice. Eventually a hurried telephone call brought the truant clergyman, who, almost two hours late, was profuse in his apologies for his absent mindedness.

FRIEND OF FIRE INSURANCE.

"That remark was suspicious," said Senator Root, in a brilliant analysis of a recent scandal. "That remark opened up backgrounds of suspicion as vast and forbidding as those which were opened up by the remark of a rich clothier. "What are you buying a new safe for? the clothier's wife asked. "Well," was the reply, "the old safe's been through so many fires that the safe manufacturers want it for an advertisement."

DIET AND HEIGHT.

Plutarch, in his life of Lycurgus, states that the tall figures of the Spartans were due to their spare diet. "For," says he to himself and all the rest of us, says he, "when the animal spirits are not too much oppressed by a great quantity of food, which stretches itself out in breadth and thickness, they mount up in their natural lightness, and the body easily and freely shoots up in height." Quite a fine compliment to the tall guy, but we will venture to say that Plutarch must have been over five foot eleven inches or he would never say that.

GETTING WORSE.

"Tommy had to meet with the board of education yesterday." "The board? Good gracious! What I was a boy it was only a switch."

Azur 2749.

This fine horse will make the season of 1911 at the stable of W. H. Purdon, Murray, Ky., at $10 for horse, colt and $15 for mare colt. Azur is a German Coach and his splendid qualities are well known to all lovers of fine stock in the county.

Why not raise some good work horses and brood mares? You now have a chance to raise some mares from which you can raise males that will be large enough to do any kind of work and bring the highest market prices. So why not take advantage of this opportunity? Should it be your lot to raise a horse you have something to be proud of, a horse that is gentle kind disposed, for that is the nature of this stock. You scarcely have to break them to work. All you have to do is to hitch them up and drive on. That is the history of this stock. Make inquiry and see whether or not this statement is true.

We have in this county some of the world's best saddle horses and we are proud of them, but there is a demand in this and other states for more work stock and why not this county prepare to meet the demand? What does the mule buyer say when he looks at your mule? He says, "you have a good mule, but he is a little to small for my use, if he had the size I would give you your price." We refer you to some of his colts, that have been sold, some at weaning time at $100. Mr. Willie Downs sold a two year old filly for $200, she also won the blue ribbon at the county fair. Mr. Napoleon Lagister also sold a two year old horse for $200 and several more 4 month old colts that might be mentioned sold at $90.

Do Ghosts Haunt Swamps.

No, never. It is foolish to fear a fancied evil, when there are real and deadly perils to guard against in swamps and marshes, bayous, and lowlands. These are the malarial germs that cause ague, chills and fever, weakness and may induce deadly typhoid. But Electric Bitters destroys and casts out these vicious germs from the blood. "Three bottles drove all the malaria from my system," wrote Wm. Fretwell, of Lucama, N. C. "and I have had fine health ever since." See this safe, sure remedy only $1.00 at Dale & Stubblefield's.

Burnett Washam Stock.

HOPS FOR PILLOW FILLING

Austrian peasant woman recommends them for their efficiency as sleep inducer and beautifier.

A man who suffered from sleeplessness picked up in Austria recently what seemed to him to be the best remedy he had ever found. It was nothing more or less than a pillow stuffed with hops. An Austrian peasant woman recommended it to him as a sleep producer but as a beautifier as well.

Returning to this country the man brought some New York hops, famous for their beer making qualities, but to his surprise they did not work as well as the hops he had tried abroad. He found out by experiment that hops that made good beer didn't necessarily produce good sleep.

After he had sampled a lot of different kinds of hops he found that by mixing hops grown in Bohemia with hops grown in California and Oregon he got a combination which seemed to answer all purposes in the sleep producing line.

He decided that he had hit it right when he took a couple of pillows he had stuffed with this combination in his office downtown home with him on the elevated. He got in at Rector street carrying the pillow and sat in one of the double seats. Two men and a messenger boy sat with him.

At Fifty-ninth street all three were in profound slumber. Several other persons who had been reading newspapers near him were in evident distress in their efforts to keep awake. Inquiry at different drug stores seemed to indicate that the hop pillow idea was a new one, though hops have long been known to have sleep inducing qualities, as shown particularly in the use of beer. According to those who have tried hop pillows, you get all the soporific qualities of the hops in this way without breaking any temperance pledges or suffering any harmful effects.

LADY MACBETH LOVES CHOPS

Butcher-Attributes Genius of Artist and Actress to Fact They Eat His Meat.

It is not altogether easy to imagine a lady Macbeth eating chops. Yet her greatest impersonator got her inspiration from them. If one may rely on an altogether delightful author, E. V. Rieu, in his recent book, "The Second Post the painter Haydon said his butcher, who reproached by his painting of 'Alexander'.

"Quite alive," said the butcher. "I am glad you think so," said the artist.

"Yes, sir; but as I have often said to my sister, you could not have painted that picture, sir, if you had not eat my meat, sir."

"Very true, Mr. Sowerby."

"Ah, sir, I have a fancy for genius, sir."

"Have you Mr. Sowerby?"

"Yes, sir. Mrs. Siddons, sir, has eat my meat, sir. Never was such a woman for chops, sir. Ah, sir, she was a wonderful creature."

"She was Mr. Sowerby."

"Ah, sir, when she used to act that there character - but Lord, such a head, as I say to my sister - that there woman, sir, that murders a king between meals."

"Oh, Lady Macbeth."

"Ah, sir, that's it. Lady Macbeth. I used to get up with the butler behind her carriage when she acted, and I used to see her looking quite wild, and all the people quite frightened."

"Ah, sir, that's it. If it wasn't for my meat, though, you wouldn't be able to do that!" - Youth's Companion.

Water-Elephants.

The existence of a hitherto unknown beast, the water-elephant, has recently been discovered. No specimen of this animal has as yet been brought to Europe, but the skeleton came into the hands of scientists, and not so much as a photograph of it is known to exist. Mr. Le Pout, an explorer, came across five on the banks of a lake in the Upper Congo.

As soon as he approached they sprang into the water and swam off, leaving only their trunks above the water. They are, he says, about six and a half feet high, with long necks, short ears, and short trunks. Judging from their tracks, their feet differ considerably from those of the ordinary elephant.

His Bones Easily Broken.

Known as the "glass-bone boy," James Loetach of Caldwell, N. J., kept up his record when he fell on the sidewalk in front of his home a few days ago and broke his arm. This is James' eighth bone-breaking feat in the eight years of his life and his third within the last six months. In September he broke his right leg in kicking a football. In November, when he was standing in a wagon, the horse moved unexpectedly and jolted him to the wagon bed. The jolt did not roll him from the wagon, but broke his left arm.

Ruins in Yucatan.

There is in Yucatan a chain of ruins 300 miles long, where once stood buildings richly decorated and erected with a vast amount of architectural knowledge. The ruins are scattered to the stone age, when the remarkable figures in stone were carved with pieces of flint. The people of this age had not the use of other metals or iron.

WHERE TUBS PRECEDE BOOKS

Denmark School Children Must Bathe Before They Pile in for Prayers and Recitations.

Denmark is one of the cleanest countries imaginable. In a Copenhagen public school one may see an interesting sight. Mounting the spotless stone staircase to the first floor every morning you may see at eight o'clock the children assemble and answer to their names and then march to a dressing room. Here they undress and each child neatly folds its clothes and puts the tidy bundle on the floor. Then the children go into a small square room with shelves all around and on these shelves are innumerable wooden tubs, such as we use in America for washing, with two iron bands around them. Everything is in immaculate order. The teacher gives each child a tub and he or she takes it to an immense and well lighted wash room.

Of course the boys and girls are washed separately, and they perform this ablution by grade, the tiniest ones coming first. The floor of the wash room is of cement and in the center is a latticed wooden floor. Around the top of the walls runs a nickel shower pipe, the water of which is regulated by the teacher. Under these showers at the height where the small figures can reach, are nickel stands with soap and the stiffest hog bristle brushes which make one shiver. Nearby is a faucet.

Each child puts his or her tub under the faucet and pours the necessary amount of water into it and proceeds to scrub not himself or herself, but the child in front. When all are clean the teacher turns on the showers and they are all thoroughly rinsed with first hot and then cold water. Each child is obliged to empty its own tub, then the clean, rosy little bodies dry themselves with rough towels, standing on the wooden latticed floor. Each tub has to be carefully put away, the children dress themselves and they file in for prayers and the business of recitation begins. - Youth's Companion.

WILL BUILD RUSSIAN CANAL

Minimum Depth of Proposed Canal Between Black and Baltic Seas to Be Fourteen Feet.

A canal has been formed at St. Petersburg to prepare for the construction of a canal between the Black Sea and the Baltic. The engineering project, which has been prepared by Mr. Ruzhichet, is to build a canal with a minimum depth of 14 feet. The original project was to have a canal 31 feet deep, so as to allow the passage of large warships, but the government rejected this on the ground that sufficient water could not be found to feed such a canal.

The total length of the canal from Riga to Kherson is 2010 versts, a verst measuring 3501 feet. Of this 485 versts would follow the bed of the West Dvina from Riga to the village of Breshnevsk. From there the canal would follow a new route for 95 versts, joining the Dnieper at the town of Koptuk. For the remaining 1520 versts the Dnieper would be utilized, except at the rapids, where a new canal would have to be excavated. The engineer would require dredging at many points. The Dvina would have to be made into a canal for its entire length and would require 15 locks. The water would be drawn from the Beresna by a canal 125 versts long. The cost of the canal is estimated at $150,000,000. The plan is to raise money by bonds on the foreign market, but to exclude foreigners from holding any of the share capital. The government is to be asked for a guarantee, and only Russian labor, material and machinery are to be used. The promoters rely on a gross annual revenue of $16,500,000 - London Correspondence New York Sun.

He Sailed on the Constitution.

John Lowe, who once was a member of the crew of the historic frigate Constitution, has died at his home in Portsmouth, N. H., after a short illness. He was born in New York January 9, 1824. When he was seven years old both of his parents died. After a limited amount of schooling he learned the trade of a stone mason, but in 1835 he enlisted in the Marine Corps at Brooklyn navy yard and after a short stay at the yard barracks was assigned to the Constitution, then commanded by Commodore Isaac Mayo. The ship soon left New York for Gibraltar and a cruise in the Mediterranean and returned to this country in 1835. On the expiration of his enlistment Mr. Lowe reenlisted in 1836 and went to the Portsmouth naval station in the rebel. He was transferred to the marine barracks at the navy yard and served out his second term of enlistment.

Great in More Ways Than One.

"One peculiarity of automobiles that I don't remember to have heard mentioned," said a man who had just swept his suit of clothes to the cleaner, "is found in their great ability as mud and slush splashers."

An ordinary narrow rimmed wheel cuts into mud and slush and doesn't scatter it very much, but the broad, round, faced tire of an automobile moving rapidly throws wide sheets and waves far out from its axle.

When you see an automobile coming swiftly along a muddy or slushy street you want to stand back, "way back." This I have learned by experience.
